Re: Healthier Colorado Poll - November 2019 - Key Findings
This polling data is based on 650 sample live-interviewer telephone survey, 500 in Colorado statewide, plus an oversample of 150 in 22 Western Slope Counties, among active voters in Colorado: 65\% conducted on cell-phone and $35 \%$ conducted on a land line. The survey was conducted by Keating Research from November 6-9, 2019 and commissioned by Healthier Colorado. Keating Research is recognized by Democrats and Republicans alike as providing extremely accurate polling in Colorado.
The worst case margin of error at the $95 \%$ level for the statewide sample is plus or minus $4.4 \%$.
The worst case margin of error at the $95 \%$ level for the West Slope Counties sample is plus or minus 6.7\%.

A majority of Coloradans are optimistic about the direction the state is heading.

A majority - 52\% - say Colorado is heading in the right direction (52\% right direction - 38\% wrong direction). Younger voters age 18-49 are more positive about Colorado ( $59 \%$ right direction $-28 \%$ wrong direction) than are older voters age 50+ who are more divided on the direction the state is heading ( $45 \%$ right direction $-47 \%$ wrong direction).

Michael Bennet and Jared Polis receive positive ratings.

Presidential candidate and Colorado's senior U.S. Senator Michael Bennet is a net +21 points favorable with Colorado voters ( $48 \%$ favorable $-27 \%$ unfavorable). Governor Jared Polis receives similar favorability marks with a net +13 points favorable ( $49 \%$ favorable to $36 \%$ unfavorable).
Voters are unfavorable toward Colorado's junior U.S. Senator Cory Gardner who is a net -12 points ( $33 \%$ favorable to $45 \%$ unfavorable). Cory Gardner's favorable rating is below that of President Trump who is rated favorably by only $37 \%$ of Colorado voters.

Nearly half of Coloradans say their healthcare is unaffordable.

Colorado voters are divided on their feelings about the cost of their healthcare. A majority $54 \%$ - say their healthcare is affordable, while the other half (45\%) say that the cost of their healthcare is unaffordable. In Colorado's West Slope Counties, voters are also divided on healthcare affordability with $49 \%$ saying unaffordable and 50\% saying affordable.
Those who are most likely to say that their healthcare is unaffordable include: those who purchase private insurance, paid for out of pocket ( $64 \%$ unaffordable $-35 \%$ affordable), younger voters age 18-34 ( $59 \%$ unaffordable - 40\% affordable) and families making less than $100,000 (52\% unaffordable - 47\% affordable).

Coloradans overwhelmingly say the cost of prescription drugs and medication is too high.
Americans pay some of the highest prices for prescription drugs - and many Coloradans are struggling with the rising costs of the medication they need.

When Colorado voters are asked to think about the cost of prescription drugs and medication, an overwhelming majority $82 \%$ say the costs are too high, while only $12 \%$ say they are about right or too low.
That's more than a 6-to-1 ratio of those that say costs are too high vs. those who say costs are about right / too low.

Voters in Colorado's West Slope Counties

 feel similarly with $84 \%$ saying the costs of prescription drugs and medication are too high compared to only 9\% saying they're about right or too low. And this feeling - that prescription drug costs are too high - is unabashedly non-partisan: Democrats ( $92 \%$ costs are too high), Unaffiliated (81\% costs are too high) and Republicans ( $73 \%$ costs are too high).
9-of-10 Coloradans want increased transparency of prescription drug prices.

One way to help reduce healthcare costs that Coloradans agree on is making prescription drug prices transparent and open to public scrutiny. An overwhelming majority - 89\% - of Colorado voters agree The public should have the right to know the costs that are factored into the price of prescription drugs and medications to ensure fair and ethical business practices, while only $9 \%$ disagree. Voters in Colorado's West Slope Counties feel exactly the same way with the lion's share - $90 \%$ - agreeing and only $8 \%$ disagreeing that the public should have a right to know what goes into the cost of prescription drugs.

Colorado voters are not content to sit idle with the current health insurance system.

According to this poll, a majority 55\% of Colorado voters believe that Americans under the age of 65 should have the option to purchase health insurance from a plan offered by Medicare, while the minority $37 \%$ are against it. Voters in Colorado's West Slope Counties agree - with $54 \%$ saying we should have the option to purchase health insurance from a plan offered by Medicare and $37 \%$ opposed to it.

In this poll we also asked voters to choose between three different health insurance systems:

1) The Current System in which you purchase health insurance through your employer or privately, and enroll in Medicare at age 65;
2) The Public Option System, in which you have the option to purchase a plan from Medicare - even if you're under age 65, or continue to purchase health insurance through your employer or privately;
3) A Medicare For All System, which establishes a national program where everyone receives their health insurance from a plan like Medicare.

Colorado voters are fairly evenly divided among all three choices: 34\% choose the Current System, 30\% choose the Public Option System and 29\% choose the Medicare For All System. A majority 51\% of Democrats prefer the Medicare For All System, while a majority $64 \%$ of Republicans prefer the Current System.
